

SEEN LONDON REPARATIONS PACT

REACH A FINAL AGREEMENT ON DAWES SCHEME

Bitter Struggle of Five Years Over Payment of German War Obligations Brought To a Conclusion.

(International News Service.)
LONDON, Aug. 16.—The German reparations problem, which has kept Europe in a ferment for nearly five years, was settled today upon the basis of the Dawes plan—the formula of an American banker.

After four weeks of discussion, the reparations protocol, providing for the execution of the Dawes plan, was formally signed at the British foreign office at 8:30 this evening.

Germany accepted tremendous obligations to pay off her staggering indemnity debt, but in return will receive a $200,000,000 loan and probably subsequent loans to rehabilitate German business, commerce and finance.

Evacuation of the Ruhr by Franco-Belgian troops, which had been the subject of a conference for a time, but was finally settled, the French promising to withdraw the troops as quickly as possible after the signing of the agreement.

Under the Dawes plan, Germany is virtually placed under a blanket mortgage for payment of her indemnity debt. Allied and American supervisors will conduct German business along hard-headed American lines to get the greatest possible revenues.

A historic scene at the foreign secretary's office this evening when the various delegates, many of them wearing silk hats and frock coats, gathered for the ceremony of signing the agreement.

It was a historic scene at the foreign secretary's office this evening when the various delegates, many of them wearing silk hats and frock coats, gathered for the ceremony of signing the agreement.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order. The delegates were in a cheerful mood, happy over the successful termination of their labors.

These labors had been greatly facilitated by the American observers, headed by Frank H. Kellogg, the United States ambassador, and Col. J. A. Logan, American representative on the inter-allied reparations commission.

Believe Girl Whose Body Was Found Under Bridge Choked by Assailant.

(International News Service.)
EDFORD, Ind., Aug. 16.—Lillian McKinney, whose body was found under a bridge near here Wednesday morning, had a desperate fight for her life, it was disclosed at a post-mortem examination held here today.

Physicians who examined the body found a number of bruises about the neck, indicating the girl had been choked by her assailant.

Further examination disclosed that three fingers on one hand were broken and two on the other hand were sprained.

BRUISED BODY OF WOMAN IS FOUND IN AN APARTMENT

Examination of Physicians Fails To Determine Definitely Whether Young Actress Is Victim of Heart Failure Or Lost Life As Result of Foul Play — Papers Found In Rooms Indicate Girl Formerly Lived At Independence, Missouri.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—For the third time in two years New York police tonight were confronted with a mysterious tragedy of the great White Way in the death of Julia Warnock, beautiful young Follies girl, whose nude body was found in the bath tub in her apartment on the upper West Side today.

Unable to determine after a preliminary investigation whether detectives must set out once more on the task of solving another "Dot King" or "Louise Lawson" murder, medical examiners were unwilling to pronounce judgment tonight.

Police immediately were ordered to check up on the girl's recent activities.

The girl's body was discovered about 10 o'clock by Miss Warnock's maid. The girl had laid out the bath rug, turned off the water and then apparently had collapsed. She had not yet removed her bedclothes when death overtook her.

Physicians summoned from the Knickerbocker hospital to the apartment, in a fashionable hotel district, declared the girl did not drown. Death was caused, they believed, by heart failure, superinduced possibly by acute indigestion.

Marks on the body may have been caused by the fall, doctors said, but because of the bruises they notified the police, who decided to check up on all possibilities of the girl's having met foul play during the last few days.

Letters in the apartment indicated that Miss Warnock was the daughter of Mrs. J. Warnock, Independence Mo., who was notified of the death at 11 o'clock.

Papers in the apartment included a contract with the Follies, signed June 17, and calling for a salary of $50 a week.

Twice Divorced.
INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Aug. 16.—Mary Julia Warnock, Follies girl, found dead in New York today, has been married two times. Her first husband was Charles Grabske, prominent business man, and her second, Harry Liberman, Kansas City banker.

She divorced Grabske five years ago and Liberman a year ago. Miss Warnock and her sister, Martha, went to New York from their home here shortly after Julia's last divorce.

The slow start of the La Follette campaign is said to be due to the difficulty in securing the elements backing the independent movement, with their widely varying interests, into a compact organization.

VETS' ROUNDUP IS BIG SUCCESS

Dancing, Speaking, Contests, Fireworks and Airplane Stunts On Program of Annual Affair at Havelock—Thousands Attend.

PRIZE UNCLAIMED FOR MARRIAGE ON GROUNDS

Couple Backs Down Though License Is Ready And 10-Day Notice Dispensed With—Earl Cline Delivers Main Address.

Thousands attended the American Legion annual roundup at Havelock Saturday and made it the most successful that has been held, declared Charles Reeve, general chairman of the committee.

Commencing at 11 o'clock in the morning, the program was not finished for more than twelve hours, and the crowds did not go home until after the fireworks had been fired about midnight.

Airplane stunts, including two drops by parachute from a moving plane, races and games, speeches and dancing made up the rest of the program. While stated events were not in progress, "hollyhoos" men made the park lively in carnival style.

The $25 offered to the couple who would be married on the grounds during the day went unclaimed. One pair of young people first consented and then backed out. Though legion officials obtained a license and judges who agreed to dispense with the ten-day notice requirement, no substitutes could be found.

Cline Speaks.
Earl Cline of Lincoln, past state commander of the legion, made the address of the afternoon on "The American Legion."

"Love of country and old fashioned patriotism are the aims of the American Legion," he declared.

Every bit of remedial legislation for the disabled veteran, passed by congress or the state legislature was instituted by the legion and pushed through by its influence, Mr. Cline asserted.

"No member of the legion would ever defend war," remarked the speaker in connection with a denunciation of the war, "but there is something worse than death in death."

Within a few hours after he had been injured in an accident when his car collided with an auto owned by W. H. Mulnix, Eldorado, Kas., a suit was filed on behalf of General M. Turley of Lincoln asking $10,000 damages from the Kansas.

STAGE IS SET FOR BRYAN'S NOTIFICATION

Notables On Way To Nebraska Capital To Hear Acceptance Address of Democratic Vice Presidential Nominee.

The eyes of the American people, figuratively speaking, and their ears in a literal sense—thanks to the radio—will be turned toward Lincoln on Monday evening for the ceremony of notification to Governor Charles W. Bryan as the democratic nominee for vice president of the United States.

Harrison To Notify Bryan Of Selection

PAT HARRISON

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, temporary chairman of the democratic national convention, who will deliver the address of notification to Governor Charles W. Bryan, democratic nominee for vice president, at the Nebraska Memorial stadium in Lincoln Monday night.

Senator Harrison of Mississippi, who as temporary chairman of the New York convention made the keynote speech there, will come from his primary campaign at home to deliver the notification address.

Governor Jonathan Davis of Kansas is scheduled to arrive some time Sunday or Monday to witness the formalities in honor of his fellow chief executive. Mr. Davis himself was among those voted for as presidential candidates at the national convention six weeks ago. He has been renominated for governor of his state.

William Jennings Bryan, once of Lincoln but now a citizen of Florida, will be on hand to pay homage at his brother's political shrine, thus reversing the relationship which formerly existed between the two. He will not speak, however.

Governor J. Y. Sanders of Louisiana will attend the notification ceremony. From east, west, north and south, men and women of the democratic faith are journeying to Lincoln for the big event. A number of eastern newspapers have sent special writers to "cover" the notification.

Will Entertain Visitors.
The local committee on arrangements, of which C. A. Lord is chairman, and the two large reception committees of Lincoln men and women, headed respectively by Sterling F. Mutz and Mrs. Clara C. Clayton, will be busy Sunday and Monday meeting the visitors as they arrive and seeing that they are properly looked after.

The reception committees have outlined a tour of the city beginning at 2 p. m. on Monday. Members of the reception committee having cars are requested to be on Ninth street, north of the Lincoln hotel, at 1:45 on that day. The tour will be as follows: O street to Twenty-second; Ant-

MANY NEBRASKA COUPLES LEAVE STATE TO WED

Cross Borders to Escape Requirements of "Eugenics" Law.

Total Number Of Licenses Issued Drops From 12,416 to 9,129.

In 1923, during the last five months of which the Nebraska eugenics marriage law was in force, 2,706 Nebraska couples went to other states to obtain licenses and escape the 10-day wait required by the new law, according to partially complete figures obtained by the state department of vital statistics.

The figures obtained from Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming are not complete. The total for the state could not be obtained and the county clerks of the counties bordering on Nebraska gave the figures. How many went further into the state to get licenses is unknown.

Thirteen Kansas counties were patronized by 589 Nebraska couples. Five Colorado counties reported 244 licenses to Nebraska couples, and three Wyoming counties issued 141 licenses to people of this state.

In this state, 12,416 licenses were issued during 1922 and 9,129 licenses during 1923, this showing a sharp decrease in spite of the fact that the "eugenics" law was in force only five months of the latter year.

This shows a decrease of about 3,000 licenses, the number supposedly issued to Nebraska couples in other states.

W. L. Davies, Kansas state registrar, in a letter to the Nebraska vital statistics bureau, says:

"There was a decided increase in marriage in Kansas, and as the only revenue that the vital statistics division in Kansas has is the 50 cent fee for each marriage license issued, we are glad to note the increase. Until this investigation we had no idea that much of the increase was at the expense of Nebraska. It is quite evident that the young people object to the 10-day public notice of their intentions."

"Other bordering states that have no such law are benefiting also at the expense of Nebraska, as, for example, in Colorado, a small town on a branch line that loops out of Nebraska and then in again, issued 109 licenses. In Arlington, Wyo., another small town, which seems to be the Mecca of couples in the upper Platte valley, issued 107 licenses. Sterling, a larger town, in Colorado, reported 74 licenses."

Following are the bordering Kansas counties and the number of licenses issued in each:

FATHER AND SON WEEK NOV. 9-16

Banquets, Boy Survey, and Armistice Day Parade On Week's Program.

Promotion of father and son week, November 9 to 16, in Lincoln will be in charge of a boy and church council made up of boys work committees of the churches, the Y. M. C. A. announced Saturday. There are to be father and son services and father and son banquets at each church. A boy survey will be carried on during the week and boys will march in a parade on Armistice day under church banners. O. J. Pee is re-appointed state chairman and Charles N. Cadwallader is local chairman of the father and son committee.

Walter Head of Omaha, prominent in boys work, spoke before the world committee of the Y. M. C. A. at Geneva, Switzerland, August 15 and said, "More than twenty nations observe father and son week. The attendance last year was over three million fathers and sons."

A meeting of the boy and church council will probably be called by the chairman the latter part of September to lay tentative plans for the week and appoint committees. Over thirteen thousand fathers and sons of Lincoln attended some form of this activity last year, it was estimated.

BIG WHEAT YIELD ON BERGE'S FARM

Garden County Land Produces Average of Thirty Bushels to Acre.

Nearly twelve thousand bushels of wheat off of 875 acres or an average of thirty bushels an acre for the whole field is the record made on the farm of George W. Berge near Lisco, Garden county, Nebraska.

The wheat crop was raised on sod that was just broken last year and stood a period of drought during the early summer with remarkable endurance. Mr. Berge believes that a rain at the right time would have made him a yield of forty or forty-five bushels an acre.

The crop was planted and harvested by Mr. Berge's tenant, E. L. Woodcox. In addition to this three hundred seventy-five acres of wheat and thirty acres of oats, which went forty bushels an acre, Mr. Woodcox is caring for four hundred acres of corn.

In the nine years that Mr. Berge has been interested in this farm he has only once missed a crop. Although his land is ungranted and the rain fall is much less in that section of the state, the soil, he says, seems able to hold moisture and withstand drought much better than in eastern Nebraska. Last year four hundred acres of corn failed by Mr. Woodcox went forty bushels an acre.

Mr. Berge is a well-known Nebraska attorney and democratic leader. He personally managed this Garden county farm until 1920.

This has given me the protection of $2,500.00 for fifteen years and now returns to me in cash $388.70 more money than I have paid in. I only wish that I had taken out more insurance in this company when I was younger and will advise every young man to start as large a policy as he feels that he can keep up as early in life as possible in the Bankers Life Company.

I could have taken $1,082.65 in cash and had a fully paid up life policy for $2,500.00, that would pay an annual dividend as long as I live, or I could have had a fully paid up life policy for $4,145.00. All of these options are very attractive and that is the beauty of this company as one of these options will meet every man's condition.

Osborne Wood Again Bucks Wall Street; Now Millionaire

NE WYORK, Aug. 16.—Lieut. Osborne C. Wood, son of Maj. Gen. Wood, is now a millionaire.
When he made $800,000 out of long distance Wall street speculation last December, the wise heads of "the street" said it was fool luck. Nobody could buck the Wall street game from a distance—Wood was in the Philippines—and win. But today they conceded that he had turned the trick again—this time from Paris and to the tune of between $200,000 and $300,000. He played his original favorite—Cast Iron Pipe.
When he won the better part of a million there was such a furore that he resigned his commission and moved to Paris.
The "bit" again—on a tip. By all the precedents he ought to have lost his winnings. But he didn't; he added the "bit" that made him a millionaire.
And now in the street they are repeating "it was fool luck."

Snowballs In Lincoln Work of Caper-Cutting August Weather

It has been snowing in Cedar Rapids and it has been snowing in Iowa City and the weather has been cutting all kinds of capers.
But it has been left for Lincoln to have snowballs—fine, big, white snowballs that grew under the August sun and thrived in the August heat.
True, the little boys can't very well roll them down hill and the old gentlemen's hats are safe, but they are snowballs just the same.
When Morris Weil gazed out of his window at his home, 1149 South Seventh street, Friday morning, he thought the natural fables had been at work. He thought the world had turned upside down. He thought the seasons had done a little somersaulting over night.
When he had looked out at the sunset the night before, the backyard had resembled nothing more than an ordinary well kept rear lawn. When he gazed out in the morning, out of nowhere into here had come three soft fluffy white blossoms on

Scientists Hope To Reveal New Facts Concerning Mars Shortly

LOWELL OBSERVATORY, Flagstaff, Ariz., Aug. 16.—A little group of American scientists, headed by Dr. W. W. Coblentz, physicist of Washington, D. C., became unusually excited here today.
Tonight, as the planet Mars begins its final swing which will bring it closer to the earth than it has ever been before, great telescopes were to be trained upon the desert's southwestern sky.
Here, at this observatory, where Martian observations have been conducted for thirty years and where the "canals" of Mars were first sighted, there is a feeling of excitement, for tonight or some time before August 22, when the planet gets closest to the world, new astronomical history may have been written.
Mars will still be more than 34,000,000 miles away, Dr. Coblentz declared, but he is confident something new about the planet will be revealed as it pushes itself nearest in history to the earth.
Dr. Coblentz is particularly interested in Mars' heat, which he believes is increasing yearly and his studies during the coming days will be devoted to measurements of the heat rays from the planet and an attempt to determine its mean temperature.
The Washington physicist has already reached the conclusion that Mars is warmer than credited. He is working with an extremely delicate minute instrument of his own development, which he hopes on August 20 or a few days later will give him knowledge which scientists have sought for years.
Observations completed within the next ten days are expected to give Dr. Coblentz knowledge to definitely announce that Mars' temperature is above zero and that the planet is getting warmer all the time.
Another question which the scientists hope to answer is whether the

CORN ADVANCE A BIG FEATURE OF PAST WEEK

Quotations From 6 to 11 Cents Higher Than Those Of Preceding Week.

Reparations Settlement Expected To Have Favorable Influence In U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Steady advance in the price of corn was a feature of the business situation this week. The price of corn advanced from 6 to 11 cents over the prevailing price of the preceding week. Oats and wheat were also higher. The stock market was strong also, both industrial and railway stock advanced in price.
The reparations settlement in Europe is expected to have a favorable influence upon American business. The American steel industry is showing improvement but is not yet back to normal.
The rate on money for call loans in New York held at 2 per cent all week. Time loans were made at from 3 to 6 per cent.
Prices of most issues of Liberty bonds declined during the week. New bond issues during the week totalled nearly $146,000,000.
The price of cotton broke sharply at the end of the week, one private reports that the crop would be bigger than anticipated. The amount of the crop brought into sight during the week was 109,191 bales against 74,125 the previous week. Week's exports were 27,472 bales compared with 15,368 last week. The visible supply of United States cotton is estimated at 510,314 bales against 414,563 last week.
Bank Clearings Larger.—Bank clearings in United States this week were estimated at $3,184,193,998 against $2,941,755,449 last week.
Bradstreet's reported 366 business failures in the United States this week compared with 329 last week. Most of them were in the southern states.
Despite the advance of approximately 35 cents a bushel in United States wheat, the price in this country is still under that of Europe. Belief is expressed in some quarters that the heavy marketing of wheat by farmers may cause the price to decline. The visible supply of United States wheat increased 7,827,000 bushels during the week. Late corn is threatened with frost before it fully ripens, owing to the backwardness of the season. The visible supply of United States corn increased 220,000 bushels bringing the total up to 5,115,000 bushels.

TWENTY SLAIN BY MEXICAN BANDITS

Rebel Robber Band Wrecks And Loots Passenger Train Near Jalapa.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Aug. 16.—A rebel bandit band, numbering more than one hundred, wrecked a Vera Cruz train near Jalapa, a popular Mexican summer resort, Friday, sent twenty men on the night of the alleged murder run from the rear of the Nottingham apartments, where Mrs. Theresa Mors was found dead. Mrs. Iva Martin was unable to identify Alfred E. Mors, husband of the dead woman, today.
When Mrs. Martin declared that the man she had seen groping his way past her apartment window did not resemble Kid McCoy, accused of slaying his divorced wife, Mrs. Mors, through his attorney demanded that he be brought face to face with Mrs. Martin.
The bandits then started pillaging. They searched the passengers, not even sparing women and children, taking money and valuables.
Three Germans were aboard the train and they seized the guns dropped by dead guards and joined with a handful of military guards in an unsuccessful attempt to beat off the bandits.
After completing their task of pillaging, the bandits fled. Troops are trailing them.

See Revival of World Trade In Early Future

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Revival of world trade in which the United States will have a large share was seen tonight by governmental officials here as the principal result of the London reparations settlement as far as this country is concerned.
Reparations payments by Germany should also make it possible, officials said, for France and other European debtors of the United States to begin the payment of their vast war debts.
Alan G. Goldsmith, trade expert of the commerce department declared tonight that adoption of the report has "meant the conclusion of perhaps the greatest effort since the war to bring about financial stabilization in Germany and economic reorganization of Europe as a whole."

BRYAN CEREMONY EPOCHAL—MAYOR

Zehring Urges Decoration of Business and Residence Sections Monday.

Declaring that the notification of Governor Charles W. Bryan Monday of his selection by the democratic party as its vice presidential candidate in the November election would be an epochal event in the history of Lincoln and that the ceremonies would bring many of the nation's citizens here, Mayor Zehring said Saturday he hoped the city's business and residential sections would be appropriately decorated throughout the day with national colors.

The mayor's statement follows: "Deeply appreciative of the honors that have come to one of Lincoln's citizens, through the selection of Governor Charles W. Bryan as the candidate of the democratic party for the vice presidency and the prominence thrust upon the city through that selection it is fitting that the business and residential sections of the city be appropriately decorated for the notification ceremonies which will be held at the university stadium Monday evening."

"Because of the notification ceremonies being held here many of the nation's citizens from other states as well as many from our own state will be here and every person should show by a proper display that he appreciates the distinction which has come, not only to Mr. Bryan, but to the city as well."

"May I urge that every business house be fittingly decorated with flags and bunting be displayed, and that businesses of the vice presidential candidate appear in the windows and other prominent places in business houses. Especially would I urge that all who have curb flags have them in place early and allow them to remain throughout the day."

DES MOINES Ia., Aug. 16.—"Defense day is not a militaristic move. It is not a threat and is not a move against any nation," said Gen. John J. Pershing, commander in chief of the army today speaking before the citizens of Des Moines.

Common sense prompts us to say that we are not going to send any more untrained men to make cannon fodder for the enemy, the general continued.

Defense day means that we are trying to profit by past experience and work out some rational system by which we can develop good citizenship and patriotism. It is the greatest program for the promotion of peace ever taken by any nation.

The student soldiers at Fort Des Moines and the Iowa national guard at Camp Dodge were inspected by General Pershing today and pronounced splendid. A crowd of 5,000 persons witnessed the review at Camp Dodge this afternoon.

The general boarded a train for Chicago at 10:30 a. m. to continue his last tour of inspection of the American camps before his retirement from military life Sept. 13.

Sterling Company Quits After Quarter Century of Business

TECUMSEH, Neb. Aug. 16.—After a successful career covering more than a quarter of a century the Sterling Farm Mutual Insurance company of Sterling Neb. today decided to close up its business. The decision was made by the shareholders local farmers. For the past few years the company has suffered big losses and its business had not been such as to warrant its continuance. It was said

WOULD ENLARGE SCHOOL PROGRAM

Y. M. C. A. Committee Proposes Board Adopt 3-Year Course of Study.

Survey of 1923-24 Educational Efforts Accompanies Annual Report.

Enlargement of the efforts of the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. through employment of a secretary who shall devote half time to educational work during the coming season and full time beginning a year hence is proposed in a report sent to the association board of directors for approval at a meeting to be held Monday.

The report was framed by the educational committee at a session Thursday.

In proposing to enlarge the educational efforts of the association the committee points out that a finite number of men and women can only through the employment of a full time educational secretary can the desired ends be realized. With a permanent secretary the report says a program could be worked out which will cover a period of two or more years of a student effort.

Next to an interested and informed educational committee assisted by a competent secretary the report continues the most important element in the success of the work is the faculty and adds that men and women who are the subjects to be taught—men who are Christians and who have a recognized standing in the community—should be employed.

Would Be Self Supporting A budget accompanying the report shows that the school would be self supporting. It is estimated that $6,450 would be available and that the expenses would be $5,000. The revenue would be raised from 20 tuition at $20 each and $400 in interest from the B. L. Paine fund. The budget estimate however does not include a salary for the educational secretary or overhead items.

In proposing an organization of a permanent school the committee says it has given full consideration to the fact that Lincoln is an educational center with a high rating but has found that heretofore $50 older boys and young men have been attending the several night schools and that many more were seeking the opportunity.

Accompanying the report was a survey of the work done during the winter of 1933-34. The work centered largely on the teaching of public speaking, business ethics, salesmanship and practical psychology. A deficit of $3,900 for the period was shown.

Besides W. K. Kibridge chairman, A. M. Newens vice chairman and A. E. Wolf secretary, R. B. Eired, Dr. E. M. Webster and Ernest Guenzel signed the report.

RIDICULOUS IDEA OF SUMMER SLUMP

Hudson-Dealer Says People Will Buy If Offered the Right Product.

Despite the myth about mid-summer slumps, the sale of Hudson and Essex motor cars has gone ahead with spectacular success since the bringing out of the new balloon-tired models, according to C. Higgins, Hudson-Exsex dealer.

"The cushioning effect of the tires from rough spots in the road, and the protection which the coaches give from dust and summer showers account for this demand," he continued. "The combination of closed car comforts at an often price and the amazing ease of riding which the new tires have brought about constitute a buying appeal which the public really welcomes."

"This summer season has been one of the most consistent and successful periods we have had over a long period of time. It simply goes to show that the public wants to buy, and will buy, whenever product and prices are right. The idea of a summer business slump is something which business communities often bring on themselves. The best business men are now doing a good business and are unanimous that the second half of 1924 will be better than the first."

"A word about balloon tires: Some motorists, who have had experience chiefly with 'balloons' which have been added to old-type cars, are saying that they doubt if the 'balloons' will ever be a success. If they would ride in the Essex or Hudson, they would change their minds. Both these cars are now of the right design to take care of all the operating conditions which the 'balloons' bring about. Our customers tell us that we have the steadiest and easiest steering cars they ever knew in the Hudson-Exsex line. To make the 'balloons' a success, the cars must be redesigned to accommodate them fully."

"There are now about 12,000,000 motor cars in the United States. Of these, 9,000,000 are open types and the next few years you will see all those old open cars traded in for enclosed ones."

"Hudson-Exsex has the coaches—the only closed cars at open car prices, and that is one reason we feel so confident about the business future."

Watch the Charge.
If the storage battery is charged at home, watch it carefully in regard to undue heating. If the battery gets hot, disconnect it from the charging unit, as it is then being charged too rapidly. Reduce the charging rate. If the charger has a fixed charging rate, write to the manufacturer and find out how to reduce this rate.

MOTORS AND THEIR CARE

Cylinder Oil Consistency.

After an engine has been reasonably long service, so that the pistons do not fit as closely in the cylinders as they did at first, it is advisable to use a heavier grade of oil in order to take up a little of the clearance.

Valve Efficiency.

As a rule the filling of valve stems is not advisable for the reason that the heat of the metal and the close adjustment of the stem and guide cause the oil to become gummy and to eventually hinder the movement of the valve.

One Way to Save Gas.

Unless an accelerator has a checking device or a stationary rest for the ball of the foot, the driver will invariably give the engine more gas than it needs. The same result is produced by operating the hand throttle control recklessly.

Out of the Mud Hole.

Setting the emergency brake helps to get a car out of the mud. This acts as a powerful drag on the wheels which, balanced against the full power of the engine, causes them to pull mightily but so slowly that they do not spin, and therefore are less inclined to slip.

Battery Joints.

Solder composed of lead and tin cannot be used in making joints, for the reason that the joints so made will corrode, and the tin, which is an undesirable impurity in a cell, will dissolve and penetrate the elements by way of the electrolyte.

Dangers of a Rickety Car.

Never tolerate a rickety car. A loose wheel may come off just about the time it is necessary to cross a railroad. The automobile may collapse while travelling on a narrow road abutting a precipice. The car may run wild down a steep hill if the brakes are not functioning properly.

Leaky Tubes Damage Tires.

Leaky tubes have a damaging effect on tires. The slow leak due to porous rubber or imperfect tube construction is responsible for millions of dollars' worth of damage to tires annually. In the majority of cases, the air leaks out so slowly that it is hardly noticed by the motorists. The tire gradually sinks under its load to a point far beneath the pressure specified by the manufacturer; and the inevitable result is an exaggerated flexing of the casing, which leads to the weakening of the fabric, tread separation, ply separation and premature tire failure.

A Test for Carbon.

The presence of free carbon in oil can be detected by what is known as the blotter test. A drop of oil is put on a clean white blotter. If the drop disappears overnight and does not leave a dark stain, it indicates to a certain degree that there is little free carbon in the oil. If, however, a stain is left, it indicates that there is a certain amount of free carbon in the oil, which in all probability will be deposited in the combustion chamber.

When a battery is permitted to rest at intervals, it is capable of greater discharge.

A painter's brush that is thick and soft is superior to waste for removing dust from the engine.

A zigzagging wheel is remedied by having the axle set firmly and the bushings snugly adjusted.

Test the bumper by standing it against the garage wall and letting the car push. Wrap the bumper in a blanket so as not to scratch the metal.

Castile soap and water should be used when cleaning the body of the car. Mud should not be rubbed off, but washed by a moderate flow of water.

Because the car is driven at the right side of the road, where the wheels come into contact with rut, dirt and curbing, tires on the right wheels wear faster than those of the left.

The waste of gasoline can be prevented by stopping the engine when the car is left standing. Many dollars' worth of fuel is burned up unnecessarily when a car is not in motion.

A motorist should scrape his feet when stepping into the car from the garage floor. An oily shoe is a source of danger when it presses on the brake pedal. It may slip off.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

A right-hand batter steps up to the plate. The signal is passed for a slow or a curved ball to be pitched to him.

Where should the shortstop play? When a slow or curved ball is being pitched to a right-handed hitter, the shortstop should pull over towards third base. Such a hitter has a tendency to pull such balls into left field. This is one of the reasons why all infielders should know the kind of a ball the pitcher is going to send the batter every time he pitches to him.

The batter up is a left-handed hitter. The pitcher is going to throw him a fast ball.

Where should the second baseman play? Under such conditions the second

The outstanding buying choice this year is "Closed Car Comforts at Open Car Cost." The Coach alone provides them. It is exclusive to Hudson and Essex. Everyone knows it gives highest closed car value. And because no other type of car shares its position it is the largest selling 6-cylinder closed car in the world.

Genuine Balloon Tires Enhance World's Greatest Value

Naturally when balloon tires had established their superiority Hudson and Essex would adopt them. They are now standard equipment. They add an even greater measure of riding ease, steadiness and good looks to the notable values of the Coach.

In workmanship, materials and design both Hudson and Essex are of one quality—built in the same factories, under the same patents. Your choice between them will rest solely on the price you want to pay.

You see the coach everywhere in increasing numbers. Everyone wants closed car comforts. They will no longer accept half-utility when all-year usefulness and comforts cost no more in the Coach.

Consider how the growing trend to closed cars affects resale values. The diminishing demand for open cars means far faster depreciation in that type. As the wanted type, the Coach maintains exceptionally high resale value.

Firestone full-size BALLOON GUM-DIPPED CORDS

Perform as No Other Tire Can—

Because No Other Tire Is Gum-Dipped

Gum-dipping is the special Firestone process that made the Balloon Tire practical by adding extra strength and endurance to thin side wall construction. It insulates each strand of each cord with pure rubber—destructive internal friction is eliminated—resistance to wear is increased—and longer tire life results.

Firestone, having perfected the Gum-Dipping process and used it for years, was in the position to pioneer the Balloon Tire. Gum-dipping is the foundation of modern tire performance. Race drivers insist on Gum-Dipped cords—which have won all the important track and speedway events in recent years. Leading taxicab and bus operators recognize the mileage value of Gum-Dipped cord construction by standardizing on Firestone. Millions of motorists use Gum-Dipped cords exclusively because their own check-up of mileage and all-round performance has convinced them of Gum-Dipped superiority.

Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords have produced remarkably high mileage per tire in over 5,300,000 miles of supervised tests. For comfortable motoring, for greater safety in fall and winter driving—equip now with Firestone Full-size Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords. Their leadership is based on proven merit.

OBERLIES TELLS OF INSTITUTIONS

Member of Board of Control Gives Figures On Cost of State's Wards.

How much food, clothing, and other goods it requires to take care of the state institution population of Nebraska, and what is being done at the institutions to make them as far self-supporting as possible, was told by Member L. C. Oberlies of the board of control in a talk at the Epworth assembly ten days ago. Some of the facts and figures given in Mr. Oberlies' paper are as follows:

"The state institutional family consists of about 6,100 patients and inmates and 900 employees. For this group of 7,000 the state purchased last year 123 tons of sugar, 70 tons of salt, 23 1-2 tons of prunes, 12 1-2 tons of rice, 7 1-2 tons of chewing tobacco, 9,500 pairs of shoes, 1,200 pounds of pepper, 40 tons of coffee, 632 tons of flour, 625 tons of meat, 1,188 dozen undergarments, 569 dozen pair hosiery, and thread that would reach from Lincoln to Boston.

Daily expenditure $4,312. "The average daily cost of maintenance is 71 cents per capita or a total expenditure per day of $4,312. The salaries paid per day amount to $1,700 or about $1.85 per capita. Heat and power cost $650 a day or about 9 cents per capita; food costs $1,030 a day or 15 1-2 cents per capita; this is in addition to the farm and garden products raised by the state; clothing costs $270 per day or 4 1-2 cents per capita. Of course some clothing is contributed by friends and relatives and at Beatrice a special clothing fund is provided by law. The daily water, light and gas bill is $100; repairs on buildings $210; household equipment $180. The state owns over 4,000 acres of land and rents more than 1,000 acres in addition.

"During the past biennium the state institutions produced from their dairy herds 5,429,289 pounds of milk, which would make a canal 1,000 feet long, 10 feet wide and nearly 10 feet deep. This is valued at $252,000. The poultry department contributed 272,694 dozens of eggs, valued at $10,000. The garden and orchard products were $145,501; farm produce, $117,405. The livestock raised amounted to $50,391. At Norfolk alone the present value of the livestock is $17,327.50. At this institution one cow is producing 108 pounds of milk per day, being milked four times daily. The total value of lands and building of the state institutions is about $3,000,000. It is estimated that there is one deaf person in every 2,200 and there is one feeble-minded person in every 250.

"The board of control consists of three members. It is non-political, both in its organization and in its appointments. The board must be appointed from different congressional districts. The term is for six years. The office hours are from 8 to 5 daily. The board does not meet at stated intervals but is meeting constantly. The salary is $4,000 per year. Appointments are made by the governor and confirmation is by two-thirds of the senate.

"The present personnel is A. E. Allen, chairman, republican; L. C. Oberlies, democrat; Mrs. F. J. Biers, democrat. The office is on the ground floor of the old capitol building at the extreme east end. Visitors are welcome either at the office of the board or at the institutions."

Father Refuses To Aid Youth Who Admits Slaying of a Girl

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 16.—An aged farmer stood outside a cell at the Berrien county jail here today and faced his son, Emil "Ace" Zupke, confined as the confessed slayer of Cora Raber, his ex-sweetheart.

"You've made your bed. Now lie in it," the father said.

In the next cell, Florence McKinney, Zupke's fiancée and co-defendant in the murder of the woman who was to become the mother of Zupke's child, had been talking calmly with her attorney, Fremont Evans.

Arthur McKinney, the girl's father, had retained the counsel. "Get you a lawyer? No. When your mother and I begged you to quit your bad ways, you laughed at us. Now we are through with you."

"We hope you never get out of jail," the father told the son. Another family interested in the case of Cora Raber was making arrangements for Cora's funeral Sunday. Zupke is without counsel. Ar-

With the Law.

Lens-testing week has been a decided success. During the six nights, over six thousand cars had their lights tested.

The fact that only about 45 per cent of the cars tested, were pronounced to be in K. within the law, shows that there was a great need for the work and Chief of Police Johnstone,

County Sheriff Hensel, and County
Attorney Matson, have expressed their pleasure and gratitude for the assistance to the community and to their offices.

It was realized at the outset that it would be impossible to test a very great proportion of all the cars in Lincoln and Lancaster county, but the Lincoln Automobile club undertook the work as an educational effort only, hoping to secure the widest publicity for the law, and so that the motorist would know, in fact, that he has a much better driving light when complying with the law than otherwise. It is therefore felt that the effort was worth while, and that motorists will be appreciative.

The club is highly pleased with the response from the motoring public, and the apparent desire to observe the law. This was evidenced by the long lines of cars at the various stations each night, where it required about thirty minutes to reach the station. Credit for the free service is due largely the employees from the various garages and motor dealers, who worked faithfully. Practically every motor dealer in town furnished skilled help at these stations, and otherwise gave of their time, in order to make it a success.

Mayor Zehrung said that he was so pleased with the result that he is willing to give his official support to the erection of a permanent testing board somewhere in Antelope Park, where motorists may go any night and without assistance, see if their lights are within the legal forty-two inches from the ground at seventy-five feet distance in front of car.

MUCH ROOM IN A SMALL HOUSE

Three bedrooms in a five-room house is an unusual feature of this attractive home. This great housing capacity is possible because a dining alcove is substituted for the regular dining room. In other ways also, this plan demonstrates the best kind of economy. Ordinary materials are used in stock designs that harmonize with the development of the whole building. Stucco is generally considered an economical material for construction, and requires almost no upkeep. Notice the very plain outlines of the house and the roof.

Even the rear entry is included within the rectangular layout. These considerations make for weather-tightness as well as economy. Good proportions make simple lines beautiful. The treatment of the formal entrance and the living porch with latticed posts is extremely simple, but decidedly artistic.

A vestibule and boxed stair increase the winter comfort, and the year-round privacy of the house. There is a coat closet in the vestibule.

(See this page each week for different attractive house plans)

The long living room occupies the right side of the house adjoining the porch. An outstanding feature of this room is its paneled wainscot of stained oak. This is a wall treatment that is not exorbitantly expensive and which never needs replacement, so that it is practical as well as distinctive in the modern average home. The living room cannot help being homelike, even when vacant, for it also has a room-end of bookcases and window seat, and a homey fireplace, opposite which is an interesting alcove on the inside wall.

There is a large, light kitchen, with windows on two sides to keep it cool and free from odors and steam, and there is plenty of space for sink, range, dressers and worktable. Only a cased opening separates it from the dining alcove, where five people may be seated.

Upstairs, the three corner bedrooms are supplied with clothes closets and one also has a built-in tray case, replacing a chiffonier. In that room just outside the bathroom is a linen closet that will amply provide for all the bedding and linens of the entire house.

Here is a sensible and good-looking home, if you need a three-bedroom house, that has an unusually large amount of livable space, and is reasonable in cost.

We Sell Cleanliness

When you buy a razor, you buy a smooth chin—but you could wear a beard. When you buy a new suit you buy an improved appearance—but you could make the old one do. When you buy an automobile, you buy speedy transportation—but you could walk. But when you buy plumbing, you buy cleanliness for which there is no substitute.

Civilization depends upon cleanliness. Without it, nations totter to ruin. The ancient cultured splendor of Greece and Rome remained, as long as the people kept themselves clean. It vanished when uncivilized, adopted aliens outnumbered the original populace.

Dreadful plagues were caused by lack of personal and domestic cleanliness in the Dark Ages—dark, largely because dirty cities and houses of today would be untenable if modern plumbing was not available.

Think of these facts when you buy plumbing! Think of the progress this industry has made in building plumbing so that the fixtures can be kept as clean and with as much ease, as your dinner plates! Think of good plumbing as the guardian of health!

Then remember that good plumbing includes good workmanship in putting it in place. That will bring to mind the fact that the modern plumbing dealers named below guarantee their work, individually and collectively.

And remember—we sell cleanliness—for which there is no substitute.

Do You Have an Attic? -- Then, Perhaps, You Too Will Want a Greenwich Village of Your Own

BY LYNELLE GREEN.

Attics may be attics or merely attics. It all depends upon whose attic it is.

Marjorie Shanafelt's attic, for instance, is an attic in name only. In reality it is a bit of Greenwich Village, or of the artist colony in Paris, or of any other particularly unique and attractive place.

And she did it all herself.

The attic before the transformation was, doubtless, like other attics. It was a rugged looking affair, with beams projecting out all around like so many stubborn chins, and very likely, it too, sheltered all of the family cast-offs. But now it does more than that. It shelters all of the cast-offs of other families.

But here is the real story of the attic.

Marjorie Shanafelt, the Marjorie Shanafelt of dancing doll fame being equally as practical as she is ingenious and as ingenious as she is practical, went up in her attic and looked things over. And here it has been any other than this young lady, she would have turned away with a hopeless sigh, but not Miss Shanafelt.

Instead she looked things over with an optimistic eye and thought there were splendid possibilities in the old attic.

True, the ceiling would have to be doctored up a bit. The old beams peering down weren't so old, they added atmosphere, but the wide boards between them were unsightly. They had to be camouflaged those boards, in order to lend an artistic influence to the place. And then there was the floor—not so good.

Miss Shanafelt let her eyes wander about a little, and then decided what should be done.

The first idea that came to her was better board. Beaver board would cover up the wide boards and beaver board could be painted and decorated to her heart's content.

But—beaver board cost money, much money, so Miss Shanafelt discovered, and besides that, beaver board would take up entirely too much room. The beaver board would have to be tacked to the rafters instead of being placed in between them. So the next idea which was less expensive and also more practical, was rubber roofing.

It doesn't sound attractive, but the surprising thing about the rubber roofing is that it is exceptionally good looking—tacked between the rafters and decorated to suit Miss Shanafelt's aesthetic sense.

And the floors?

Faintly.

And yellow at that. This may sound eccentric, but it doesn't look that way.

And then—after all this ceiling and floor embellishment, something had to be done for the side walls, and what do you think this young artist did?

She made four foot sections of lattice, made from lath, and tacked building paper on one side of each section, so that the building paper would be on the wall, lattice side out, the effect was very charming.

On the east side of the attic, one of the four foot sections shelters a small store room where the sewing machine is kept when not in actual use, and where there may be a trunk and a traveling bag or two.

These four foot sections are removable, so that if anything is needed from the little store room, just a simple little twist brings out the lattice.

But it would not be necessary often to seek anything in the store room, for in Miss Shanafelt's attic studio may be found all of the family antiques and "cast-offs."

Ghosts of Yesterday.

For instance, hanging from one of the rafters is her grandmother's hoops. A ghost of yesterday, bringing with it a breath of old fashioned gaiety, and a touch of the olden times.

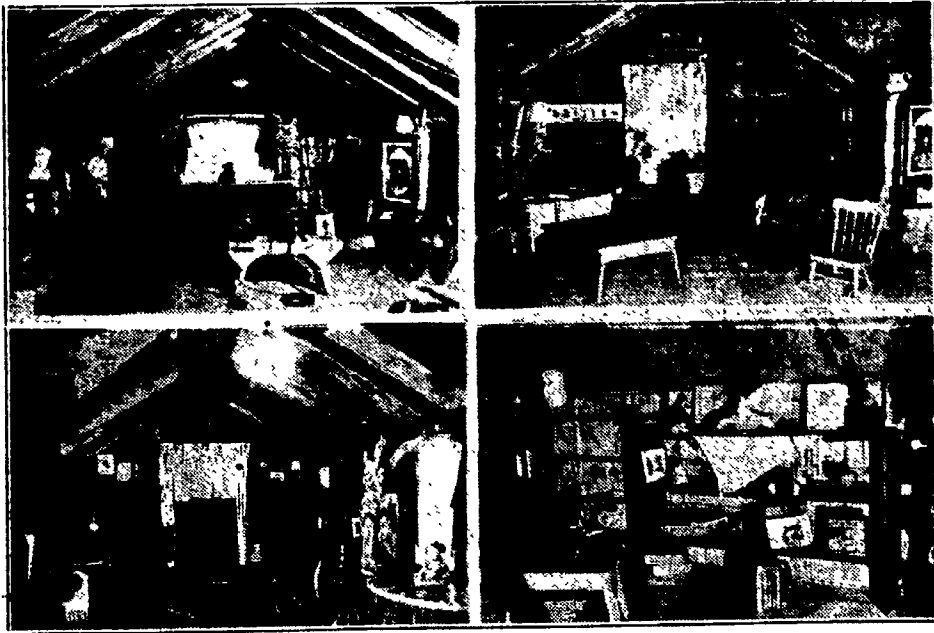

Close beside it hangs a frivolous tambourine with bright ribbons and coins decorating it.

In the center of the floor is an attractive yellow and black bench which serves two purposes. It is hard to tell which of these is the most practical, or which is the most pleasing to the eye. It is the most practical, or which is the most pleasing to the eye. It is the most practical, or which is the most pleasing to the eye.

For when there are no guests and when this little yellow and black bench is not being used for a festive supper table, it is used as a base for a moving picture machine. Generally it serves in both capacities during an evening. The pictures are shown on a screen on an honest-to-goodness stage, just like they are in the movies. Only this stage is just a little one, but the pictures do not look miniature by any means and are of more than usual interest because Miss Shanafelt took the most of them herself.

There are movies of her mother, and of Buddy, the grey Angora cat who always has a little pink tip of his tongue sticking out; and there are pictures of the flower gardens in the yard, and of ever so many interesting folk. There are pictures of birds in motion, and of pretty spots in Nebraska. In fact there is quite a variety of films and one could spend the greater part of an evening enjoying them.

"And then, after the movies, the little bench is changed into a refectory table where may be found the most delicious toasted cheese sandwiches, and all kinds of good things to eat. The coffee, too, is no small item, for Miss Shanafelt insists upon her guests grinding their own. And for this purpose she has a little old coffee grinder discarded by the family some years ago. If there is said it

Four glimpses of Marjorie Shanafelt's attic, showing the attractive manner in which it has been arranged. In the upper left picture may be seen the screen for the movie and also the little moving picture machine on the black and yellow bench. In the picture next to this is eaten from the most unique little dishes.

While enjoying the sandwiches and coffee and salad, one hears the history of some of the interesting things Miss Shanafelt has in her attic. For instance, that little black and yellow stubby looking rocker, with the rockers which were given through in spots, has been adored by the babies of three or four generations. It was home made nearly a century ago and many are the kiddies who have rocked themselves to sleep in it.

But the last little kiddie to own the chair has probably passed it by for ever things. Anyway Miss Shanafelt in her neighbor's shed, ready to be felt discovered the forlorn little chair burned or sold to the junk man or something else as dire and dreadful. She begged for the chair and it was given to her. Now it stands close to the yellow and black bench quite gay in the coat of paint Miss Shanafelt gave it, and feeling quite at home in the little attic studio.

There are shoes and sandals galore. Some of them came from Japan, some of them from China, some of them from India, and they all contribute atmosphere to the studio.

There is an old spinning wheel to keep the hoops from being too lonely. The wheel was given Miss Shanafelt by a friend and it is among her highly prized possessions.

And right by the spinning wheel is something that the girls made when our grandmothers were girls. And because when Miss Shanafelt was a little girl she spent a great deal of her time with her grandmother, she, too, learned how to make it. "It" is a button string containing the most gorgeous buttons you ever saw. This string is suspended from one of the rafters and goes nearly to the floor. There are red buttons, black buttons, steel buttons, buttons with figures on them, carved buttons, every kind of button imaginable is quite apt to be found on that string.

In some of the nooks and around some of the side walls are the old fashioned, colonial book shelves. So fashioned are they, that they really are about the most voguish thing about the attic. And that makes its place in the studio and there are a hundred and one little pieces of old fashioned bric-a-brac around on the tables and shelves.

Many Gifts.

"My friends are so nice about making me little presents for my attic," Miss Shanafelt says, "and that makes it all the more appealing to me. They see the attic and then think of some little thing they have that would be a perfect fit for it. I have a certain number of gifts for the attic are old fashioned things, and those are the kind I like to get."

Miss Shanafelt said that her attic did not cost her more than a little over twenty dollars. She meant by that that the rubber roofing and the lattice work and building paper and tacks only cost her that much. She did every bit of the work herself.

"The tacks cost me about as much as the rest of the things put together," Miss Shanafelt said laughingly.

And the attic was reconstructed only at odd moments, for Miss Shanafelt is a very busy lady. She works eight hours a day at the university, and then she must spend sometime practicing on her lovely Italian harp. La Poupee Lizette has a certain time, too. Lizette is the famous dancing doll that delighted the hearts of the majority of the children in Lincoln, and the most of their elders, too. And then she can't spend all of her spare time in the attic. For example, this spring there had to be a fish pond, a place for the prettiest gold fish you could find. Miss Shanafelt built this herself, too, and this fall she is going to build a huge out door fire place in the back yard which will be the center of much attraction, and the excuse for many a weiner roasts and steak fry.

A peep at Miss Shanafelt's attic would be an inspiration for other attics.

attic has, but to have a place as attractive as this would be worth the effort of trying.

back of that line Mr. Edgren can say nothing.

If the firm owning the sign wishes, it may pay the farmer a small sum and re-erect the sign—back of the fence. Ordinarily this is done. Occasionally a farmer objects, either because he does not like the signs on the roads any better than the county engineers or he does not wish to give up that much space in the field—and the sign must seek another home.

This cleaning of the highways has been going on rather quietly, but Nebraska is not the only state to indulge in housecleaning. Through the east, it is a rare thing to see a billboard banked up against the highway. Wisconsin has followed Minnesota and many other states, are outlawing the highway billboards.

Two Reasons—Law and Beauty.

Mr. Edgren has several reasons for clearing the highways.

One very good reason, of course, is the law. In the press of many duties, now and again something must be allowed to slip temporarily, but the time has come—has come for some time—for the bill boards.

The second reason is beauty. When you come to the top of the hill and gaze down on the checkerboard of that line Mr. Edgren can say nothing.

back of that line Mr. Edgren can say nothing.

valley, with its neat little handkerchief of squares of yellow and green, and the neck of oak's bordering an un-cultivated hillside, and over all the haze of summer don't want to be urged to drink root beer or use Miltamors oil.

You can decide that at home while the baby is playing quietly on the floor and you nail the loose board in the front step into place and the pungent odor of the fresh lemon pie steals out the door. You can do that while you wait for the 7:45 car and count the house numbers as you ride into town.

When you ride along the prairie roads and the orchards are pink with May—or the hills are hidden red beneath the bitter sweet—or the corn summer afternoon and the golden rod gleams against the old rail fence—you don't care for the cure for "bow-thrift" feeling, or whether your social status is told by the correspondence paper you use.

For a minute—a fraction of a lifetime—you are an artist—floating in beauty—a paean, paying devotion to art that is greater than art.

And that's the second reason Mr. Edgren is clearing the county highways.

Menace to Safety.

Billboards are likewise a menace to safety, when placed at a curve or at the cross roads. No matter how careful the driver, he's not a clairvoyant and he can't see around the curve. He doesn't know if it is a sudden hill or a railroad track or a deep ditch. He doesn't know how swiftly the driver from the west is coming, or whether that unseen motorist from the other direction follows the traffic regulations—and the sign boards make a better dog than a watchdog for the highway.

And they make it hard for the road maintenance men, the highway engineers, whose ads are sufficiently varied to clothe and feed a household. When a merchant places his billboard on the "shoulder" of the road, the highway machinery may not be able to get by, because of the overhanging parts. And when the machinery can't do its duty, that stretch of road is going to suffer—and then there's trouble.

And that's the fourth and last reason for Mr. Edgren's anti-billboard ward sign boards.

And if you belong to the general public you ought to agree with him, legally or artistically, for safety or from riding comfort.

It's the public that benefits in the end—even if it does have to look elsewhere to select its wardrobe, buy its furniture, choose its drinks, and decide upon its hostility.

Lancaster County Roads Are Stripped of Sign Boards For Sake of Law, Beauty, Safety

BY LULU MAE COE.

Things aren't what they used to be—not so many long years ago. No longer as you speed along over the broad highways in Lancaster county is it easy to choose where you are going to buy your summer hat, given to her. Now it stands close to the yellow and black bench quite gay in the coat of paint Miss Shanafelt gave it, and feeling quite at home in the little attic studio.

There are shoes and sandals galore. Some of them came from Japan, some of them from China, some of them from India, and they all contribute atmosphere to the studio.

There is an old spinning wheel to keep the hoops from being too lonely. The wheel was given Miss Shanafelt by a friend and it is among her highly prized possessions.

And right by the spinning wheel is something that the girls made when our grandmothers were girls. And because when Miss Shanafelt was a little

THE OFFICIAL NOTIFICATION

of NEBRASKA'S HONORED SON

Nominated by the Democratic Party as Its Candidate for

VICE PRESIDENT

TAKES PLACE in LINCOLN TOMORROW

POLITICAL CAREER OF CHARLES W. BRYAN

UNLIKE his distinguished brother, whose rise to fame and leadership was accomplished in meteoric fashion thirty years ago, Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska has climbed the political ladder step by step. Without the gift of oratory possessed by his relative, Governor Bryan has risen through the force of his energetic personality and untiring application in one sphere of action after another.

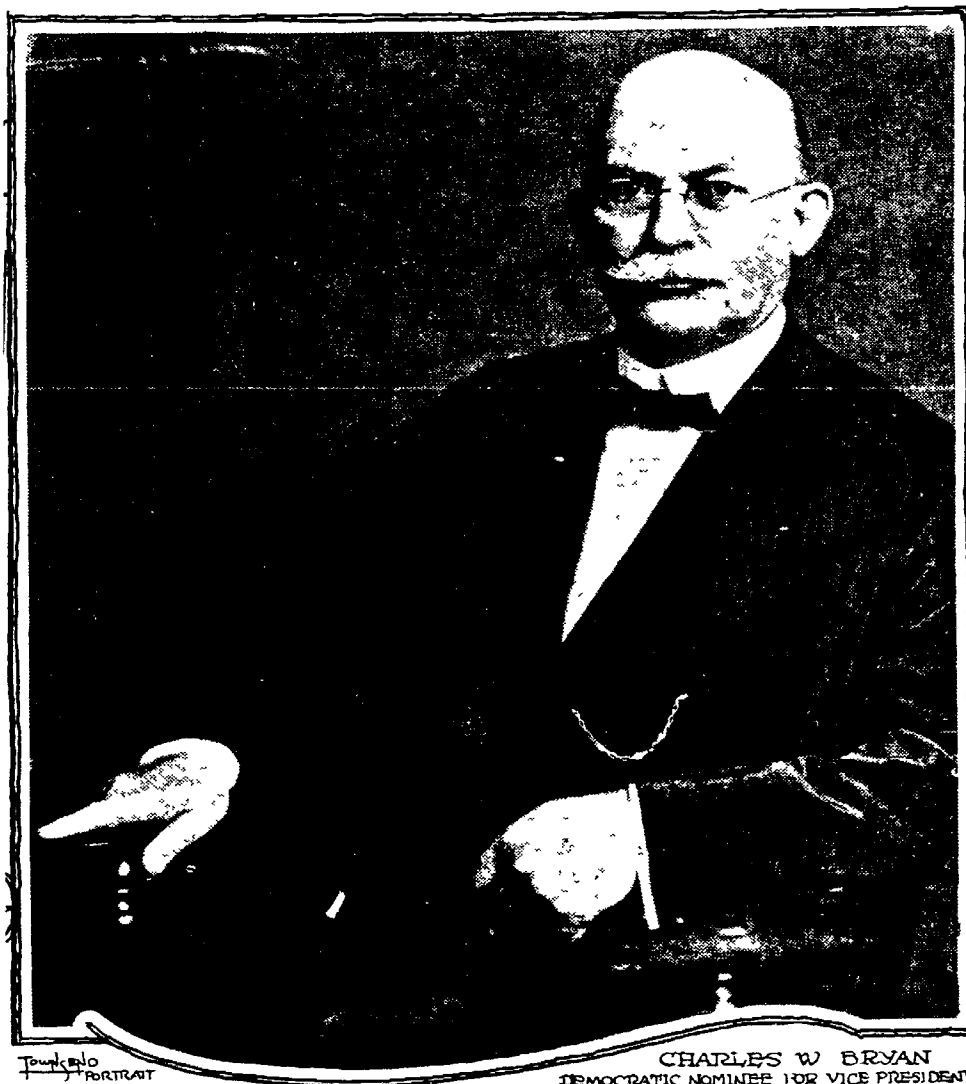

For nearly twenty years, he faithfully filled the post of confidential secretary, political manager, and business agent for his relative. During that time, he himself remained in the background, though rendering invaluable service the while.

Ten years ago Mr. Bryan entered the political arena on his own account by being elected mayor of Lincoln. He had previously served by appointment on the municipal park board, and had taken an active part in establishing the commission form of government, as well as in securing lower rates for electric light and gas and in behalf of municipal ownership projects. As mayor, he established the free employment bureau and the legal aid department and did much to develop the park and boulevard system of Lincoln.

During his term as mayor, Mr. Bryan became a candidate for governor but failed of nomination. He tried again two years later and was again defeated. Then the people of Lincoln once more elected him as a member of the city commission, in which capacity he established the municipal coal yard and put through an extensive paving program.

Two years ago, Mr. Bryan received the nomination of the democratic party for governor and was triumphantly elected by a plurality of over 50,000 the largest ever given to any gubernatorial candidate in the history of Nebraska. In a year and a half, his administration succeeded in greatly reducing the expenditures of the state government and bringing taxes down 50 per cent as compared with the peak rate of three years ago.

It was his notable accomplishments as a city and state executive, and his progressive record as a citizen and public official which directed national attention to Governor Bryan and caused him to be selected on the first ballot at the New York convention as the vice presidential nominee of his party.

CHARLES W. BRYAN
DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

WEST RECOGNIZED IN NAMING BRYAN

FOLLOWING the most bitter and protracted contest for the presidential nomination ever staged in a national political convention, the representatives of the democratic party turned almost unanimously to Governor Bryan for second place, which was tendered to him, as the saying goes, "on a silver platter."

The leaders and the delegates were of one mind in desiring a man who typified the spirit of the progressive west to complete the ticket. In looking over the field, there was no one who measured up to this requirement like the chief executive of Nebraska. The impressive majorities he had received in the state election two years ago, and in the primaries of two different political parties last April, convinced them that he was the most available and the strongest man for the vice presidential nomination.

Governor Bryan had been voted for throughout the previous balloting as one of the numerous presidential "dark horses." He was not an active candidate but received nearly all of the Nebraska votes and a few from other states in the early stages of the contest. His conspicuous accomplishments as governor in reducing the people's tax burdens, eliminating useless activities of the state government, and establishing public competition to bring down the prices of coal and gasoline, were thus brought to the attention of the delegates.

Perhaps the name of Bryan also carried a good deal of weight in determining the vice presidential selection. All over the United States there are people who enthusiastically followed the leadership of the Commoner in 1896, 1900 and 1908, and who were ready this year to enlist under the banner of his brother.

Governor Bryan's nomination is expected to appeal with great force to the farmers of the middle west and to laboring men, for whose interests he has always been an aggressive fighter.

It was primarily in recognition of the fact that the Mississippi and Missouri valley states are to be the chief battle-ground in this year's campaign that Governor Bryan was named as the running mate of John W. Davis. The Nebraskan's strength and popularity are counted on as a big asset to the national ticket in all these states.

Concert By Elks Band Sunday At Nebraska Stadium

Through the efforts of Mayor Zehrung the Sunday evening concert to be played by the Elks band will be given at the Nebraska stadium, where amplifiers which will be used at the Bryn Mawr section ceremonies Monday evening, have been installed. The concert will begin at 7 o'clock and will last until 9 o'clock. Through the use of the amplifiers the music can be plainly heard in all parts of the stadium. Through the use of a broadcasting outfit which has also been installed the concert will be sent out over the state. The following program will be under the direction of Wm. T. King:

March—Gateway City—K. S. King
Overture—Orpheus—Offenbach
Waltz—Gold and Silver—Fr. Leban
Selection—Madame Sherry—Karl Hoschner
March—Is King—Innes
Intermission
March—Chicago Tribune—Paris Chambers
Overture—Pique Dame—F. N. Shupps
Waltz—Old Times—M. L. Lake
Selection—Faust—C. H. Gounod
March—Joker—M. L. Lake

America's composers of music can not hope to reach a place in the world through an imitation of European styles. The most successful of the modern composers of this country are those who have taken the best of the old and the new and have made it their own. The American composer who uses either Indian or negro themes merely touches the outer shell of American life. This composer laments the fact that experts have failed to consider the American composer as a real American. ### LEARN FROM NATURE

The primeval character of northern France is not so different from that of our own land and its geographical conditions are not dissimilar. Its natural beauty is great but its artificial beauty is even greater. These are the stately hills and lovely valleys the rivers that seek the sea in graceful curves there are the forests preserved with every watchful care but there are also the fields and pastures hedgerows and gardens and little farms and cottages all evidences of the kindly hand of man says Thomas Raymond Hall in the June number of Architecture.

Diversified as are the architectural types of northern France they have one point in common cohesion with the soil. The half timber farm houses of Calvados the rough stone cottages of Brittany and the story and a half houses of the Loire valley and the half timbered mansions and outside stairways are all distinctive but all take on the color and character of the landscape in which they seem to grow. The use of local material of simple form and traditional workmanship combine to give this quality of homely charm. Two big things that we learn from the French are the use of local material and the use of traditional workmanship. The French style is a blend of the old and the new. It is a style that is both practical and beautiful. It is a style that is both practical and beautiful. It is a style that is both practical and beautiful.

The picture will be a religious epic and is expected to be a big success.

LEARN FROM NATURE

The primeval character of northern France is not so different from that of our own land and its geographical conditions are not dissimilar. Its natural beauty is great but its artificial beauty is even greater. These are the stately hills and lovely valleys the rivers that seek the sea in graceful curves there are the forests preserved with every watchful care but there are also the fields and pastures hedgerows and gardens and little farms and cottages all evidences of the kindly hand of man says Thomas Raymond Hall in the June number of Architecture.

Diversified as are the architectural types of northern France they have one point in common cohesion with the soil. The half timber farm houses of Calvados the rough stone cottages of Brittany and the story and a half houses of the Loire valley and the half timbered mansions and outside stairways are all distinctive but all take on the color and character of the landscape in which they seem to grow. The use of local material of simple form and traditional workmanship combine to give this quality of homely charm. Two big things that we learn from the French are the use of local material and the use of traditional workmanship. The French style is a blend of the old and the new. It is a style that is both practical and beautiful. It is a style that is both practical and beautiful. It is a style that is both practical and beautiful.

ANSWERS TO Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—I am coming to you to ask a favor, and I would like to have you give me your real unbiased opinion. I have what I am sure is a very unusual plot for a story or a scenario. Of course I am ambitious and would like to write a scenario, but I've heard so much about how hard it is to get your stuff accepted by the movie people, how often they steal your best ideas, and how little they pay when they do accept a story, that I'm wondering what to do about it.

Do you think it would be better for me to try sending it in as a scenario and take my chances at having the plot stolen, or would you try to accept a short story and having it accepted as such. Which do you think I would be most likely to succeed in? I have never had any training in short story writing, nor have I had short story writing, so I am fairly efficient as a typist, so I could make my manuscript look neat, and I've read nearly every book there is in the library on scenario writing, so I have a fairly good idea of how it is done. It would mean a lot of work to write it as a scenario, but I really want to get into writing for the movies. What I really want to do eventually is get on the studio staff of scenario writers. If I can, but I know that in order to do that I would have to prove to them that I really knew something about writing a scenario. Please tell me what you would do if you were in my place and were sure you had something to write about. Thanking you kindly, I am AMBITIOUS.

If you really want it, my honest opinion is that you would have a much better chance of getting into the movies as a scenario writer, if you first got reputation as a short story writer. I think you would have a short story accepted much easier than you would a scenario. The various magazines are always in the market for new and different plots, and they have it in their power to use the work of novices more than a film company does. The fact that a short story is published in the Post, the Cosmopolitan, Red Book, or any good magazine is enough to recommend it, should the author be unknown.

Motion picture companies buy the picture rights to some popular book or a story which appears in a popular magazine because they realize the value of advertising. A story written by a well known author or which appeared in a magazine that is read by the movie-going public would be more familiar to the populace, and they would be much more apt to see the picture, than one of which they had never heard, unless it happened to feature their favorite star. No motion picture man would spend the enormous amount of money it takes to screen a picture and advertise it unless he was sure it was going to pay for itself in box office receipts. It costs just as much to produce a scenario written by John Smith, as it does to produce one by Mary Roberts Rinehart, and equally much to exploit it. It is true that Mary Roberts Rinehart would expect a much larger sum for the rights to produce her "brain child" than would John Smith, but with the same amount of advertising the finished product as a drawing card would more than make up for the difference in the money paid for the film rights to the story. Of course you must remember that it takes a lot of patience, even in short story writing, before you are able to break down the barriers and have a story accepted. If you have a good plot, something that is out of the ordinary, write it, and keep sending it around to the magazines until you find an editor who happens to be looking for that particular type of story. There are agencies that market your manuscripts for a certain fee, but if you don't care to go to the trouble to find your own market for your wares, I would be interested in knowing what kind of success you have.

Dear Movie Editor—Will you please tell me if House Peters is making pictures at present, and if so, what is the title of his latest production? Is he married, and if so, to whom? Does he do like Charlie Chaplin and just wear it in the movies? Is he married or single? What is his picture and who plays opposite him?

What is Eileen Sedgwick's address? Is she married or single? What color hair and eyes does Mary Astor have? What is her next picture? Is she married or single, and if so to whom? What is the title of Alice Terry's next picture? Who plays opposite her? I hope it's Ramon Novarro, because I like them together. Is it true that Alice wears a wig in pictures? To whom is she married? I think she's so sweet and sincere in her acting.

Has Jackie Coogan's picture, "Little Robinson Crusoe," been released yet? Is Laura La Plante a blonde or brunette?

I will close for this time. Hoping I have not asked too many questions, I remain, yours sincerely, K. K. K.

House Peters is starring in a new Universal production, "The Tornado." He is married, to a non-professional and has two children.

Mr. Kerry's mustache is the kind that is removed with the razor. He is married and is playing opposite Mary Philbin in "The Best in Life."

Address Eileen Sedgwick at the Universal Studio, Universal City, Cal. She is Mrs. Busch in private life.

Mary Astor has brown eyes and reddish brown hair. She is working in "Oh, Doctor!" at present. She's single.

Alice Terry is co-starring with Conway Tearle in "The Great Divide." She has auburn hair, but wears a blond wig in the pictures. Her husband is Rex Ingram, the director, and former husband of Doris Pawn of Norfolk.

Jackie Coogan's picture, "Little Robinson Crusoe" has just recently had its world premiere at Los Angeles. Miss La Plante is a blonde.

Dear Movie Editor—It has been very long since I wrote last. Anyway here I am to bother you again. I am sure that you must think what terrible pests we are.

This time I want to learn about the early career of Betty Compson and Richard Dix. You need not describe them as to color of eyes, hair or height, because I have the descriptions of hundreds of the stars. I think you must be wondering why I ask this. It is because I am making small booklets of my favorite stars. In what month was Richard Dix born and in what city was Betty born?

I saw the picture, "Desire," and liked it very much. I liked it as well as "Beyond the Rocks."

I am sure you get tired of giving casts, but there are always the casts of pictures I would like to know.

I want the casts of "The American Wife," "The Green Temptation," "Thanking you very much, I am, A. Fan, ROSE, Wilber, Nebr."

I'm always glad to hear from you, Rose, and I need think of you as a "best" as you say, as all.

Richard Dix doesn't give the month in which he was born, but the year was 1894, and the city, St. Paul, Minn.

His real name is "Dick" Dix. He was educated at the St. Paul Central high school, and attended the University of Minnesota. He started his stage career with William Faversham in "The Hawk," and has played on the stage in such plays as "The Song of Songs," "The Little Day," "The Little Day," and "Night Lodging."

He played leads in Morocco Stock in Los Angeles for two and one half years before starting his screen career with National in "Not Guilty." He soon became a Goldwyn player, and for this company he made such pictures as "Dangerous," "The Alibi," "The Fair in Love," "The Glorious Fool" and "The Christian."

He is now a player in Paramount pictures.

Betty Compson was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1898, and made her first stage appearance there.

Betty used to play the violin after school hours at the orchestra of a local vaudeville theatre. One day one of the acts scheduled for the evening performance was unable to appear, so Betty was asked to fill the vacancy with a violin solo. The Compson funds were low and Betty was unable to wear an elaborate costume, so she made her first stage appearance as little gypsy vagabond, and made such a hit that she went on tour as a vaudeville violinist. She made her screen debut in "The Tornado," and by hard work won the role of "Rose" in the Paramount picture, "The Miracle Man," in which she won so much fame. Betty is still at Paramount's star and is to marry James Cruze, a Paramount director, soon.

ward Burns; Duchess de Chazarin, Lynne Lynne; Betty Duntun, Mary Lavinia; St. John, St. John; Vol-denberg; Mrs. Weedon Duyker, Betty Brice; Mrs. Weedon Duyker, Arthur Hull.

The cost for "My American Wife" is: Natalie Chester, Gloria Swanson; Manuel La Tussa, Antonio Moreno; Don Fernando de Contas, Josef Swickard; Carlos de Grossa, Eric Myne; Pedro de Grossa, Geno Corrado; Donna Isabelle La Tassa, Edythe Chapman; Hortensia de Varela, Eileen Prince; Gomez, Walter Long; Horace Beresford, F. R. Butler; Gaston Novarre, Jacques D'An-

way; Danny O'Hara, Loyd Underwood; Maid, Mary Land.

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

Are Women Stronger Than Men That They Are Expected To Withstand Temptation And Live Blameless Lives?—What Is Called Grey in a Man Is Called Black in a Woman—Thus a Discussion Reads Today On the So-Called Double Standard—A Prominent Court Case Discussed—The Love Thief Introduced—We Are Reminded That Christmas Is Coming—Many Problems Of Interest.

Dear Minerva: The letter of "Perplexed" opened a wide field for discussion and I am entering therein. A man may be temperate, immoral and still move in the highest circles of society. Refined women smile upon him, scheming mamma's flatter him and seek his company for their daughters. The world says: "Oh boys, will you boys or boys must save their wild oats." This social leper is made to feel that vice is a manly thing. The girl is given in marriage to the man who is a "home wreck," a physical ruin, with a soul stained with every known impurity. The world says: "What an excellent match!"

But this is not the end. That girl innocent of all evil, finds in time that she is married to a white-faced scoundrel and to her is left the fearful responsibility of guiding in the frame of a "home wreck," a physical ruin, with a soul stained with every known impurity. The world says: "What an excellent match!"

Let us look at another aspect of the subject. What is called grey in a man is called black in a woman. The woman, who smiles upon the immoral man, turns her back upon the sister who departs ever so slightly from the path of virtue. A woman, who falls, is crushed to the earth with sneers and taunts, and even if she wishes to rise again it is impossible. Are women stronger than men, that they are expected to withstand temptations and live blameless lives? This will end only when our sons receive the same care as our daughters; when women frown upon wrong in a man as they would upon a woman; when no clean minded girl will receive attention from a young man of doubtful character; when marriage is considered a union of true manhood and fine womanhood. "Like perfect music unto noble words."—MRS. J. P.

Wanted: An Answer. Dear Minerva: A crowded courtroom filled with inquisitive minds. A white-haired man, looking the occasion totally puzzled with it all—a group of humans over their heads in trying to solve the problems of ourselves.

Perhaps no other incident of modern times has caused the pondering throughout a people as has that of the escapades of two infants, the babies of two of the wealthiest families, Loeb and Leopold.

Numbers of savants, versed in the psychic, founder and give answers to members of the public. Opinions are turned into money, but they and we know that our heads do not hold the answer. It is that something—older than our younger generation; a something evil and dire, that creeps into a proper social procedure ever and now—an intangible something, turning a turning that brains will take, and which our young and feeble learning cannot fathom. A something mayhap, developed by synthetic gun, high powered automobiles, undisciplined behavior, senseless passion. A superiority complex? Or just smart alecks.

Cock-sure, heavy and vain, in our country, someone arises and explains—but still we ponder—still a courtroom full of men ponder; still a broken mother ponders and two perplexed fathers ponder.

Soon a key will turn and bar these two mental problems behind stone walls and but a question mark will remain.

We who guide our days and nights by social conventionality will shudder and forget with the key-turn; the savants will return to their classrooms and patients—richer only in dollars.

Give up!—L. F. C.

Love Without Responsibility. Dear Minerva: I feel that my problem is very serious and as I have no one else to give me advice I come to you for I think your advice is very good. I am twenty years old and have been going with a boy for four years. I love him very much and he also says he likes me. He comes to see me four times a week and always has dates ahead of time.

He treats me fine only he thinks he can be personal and do things which I think are terrible. He says all boys are that way. Are they? Is the only boy I have gone with so I do not know.

Now do you think a girl should allow such liberties? And how can they make a girl happy? It seems if they do not get their way they are angry.

Please advise me—BROWN EYES.

A young man has been telling me of his future happiness, do you permit my familiarity of any kind from this young man. For the girl who cheapens herself in this manner, who does not hold herself aloof from common carresses lessens her opportunity.

AMERICAN PHYSICIANS ENDORSE FRENCH SCIENTIST DISCOVERY FOR REDUCING FAT

DR. J. J. RUDOLPH, Former Health Commissioner Considers "SAN-GRINA" a Remarkable and Safe Help for FAT PEOPLE.

Up to now, reducing had been an almost unsolvable problem. It was either a question of eating less food and thus remain fat. Today a French physician of unquestionable reputation has to his credit a discovery of obesity and at the same time improving the health and rejuvenates the entire system. "I consider 'SAN-GRINA' not only a remarkable fat reducer, but a health builder for fat people." Physicians have used "SAN-GRINA" themselves, and have prescribed it to their immediate family and patients, thus proving that it is absolutely effective. "SAN-GRINA" is a small tablet which should be taken three times a day. It does not contain any dangerous drugs, and has been used by the discoverer in his own practice with most remarkable results. It is a safe, gradual loss of flesh which varies from 4 to 6 pounds a week, leaving the patient stronger and healthier with every pound of the lost. No fatty tissues or wrinkles will follow the use of "SAN-GRINA."

"SAN-GRINA" has been introduced in America, it has created such a sensation that imitations cannot be avoided. If you want results, make sure that YOU ASK AND GET "SAN-GRINA." On sale at ues for a happy marriage and life. Let the man argue all he will, but clinging to your "old-fashioned" ideas of virtue. He may tell you that you are different from all the other girls and sulk and leave you alone. But really, if he is the cheap sort who wants everything without giving anything, who wants love without responsibility, he isn't the friend you want.

The Old Home. Dear Minerva: I am the only son of quite aged parents. I recently married and established a home in the city. Prior to that, I drove out to the farm after office hours to see my father and mother. Now I am with father and mother to see the farm and move into town where they can enjoy the comforts and luxuries of town life. They have been offering snug price for the home and small farm. There is out little land left as father sold off the land while prices were high as he was too old to supervise the care of it and I did not wish to remain.

But they cling to the old home. We have made it fairly comfortable but still it is old and remote and they would be much better off in the city. Moreover the price offered them now is no doubt more than they could ever get again and the expense of keeping up the place is considerable.

Father says for me to go ahead and do what I think best. I know it is best for them to come to town. But I know also that they cling to the old home. I am assuming the responsibility of uprooting them or not.

What is your opinion?—JOHN. A. I do not believe it is best to take away from the elderly couple this old home with its host of tender memories and associations. When people reach that age, they live greatly in the past and the old things which surround them, fraught with memories of other days, mean more to them than the modern bathtubs and steam heated homes would mean. It is a struggle for them to adjust themselves to new thing and different surroundings. They would far rather carry in coal for the old heating stove, chop up a winter's supply of good during the mild months, thaw out the old pump when the temperature falls below than to sit about in estranged comfort in a shining new home.

No doubt you were born in this old home. Perhaps your mother was taken there as a bride. Every timber is precious to them. They would suffer to the end of their days making changes in the old place.

So long as it is possible at all for them to live out there—unless it is a question of jeopardizing their actual health and safety to leave them there—I say let the aged parents have their own way and remain in the home.

Christmas Is Coming. Dear Minerva: About this time of the year I start to plan my Christmas gifts. I have so many to give and I must needs make them nice. I have a lot of time for leisure throughout August and the fall months so I would like some new ideas and suggestions on gifts I could make.

There are two on my list that will be a problem. One is my mother-in-law, a prominent business woman. She doesn't care for fancy things, anything in that line. We just have to make it inexpensive. But what? Another is an aunt of mine. She's been lovely, always sending unique things, always something new. Or you might be able to make a personal book for the aunt, with pictures of the various members of your family and perhaps interesting family history and anecdotes related.

What a practical person you are, to be planning your Christmas gifts during the lull of the summer months. Most of us think we will do that very thing but our plans fail to materialize.

Wouldn't your mother-in-law appreciate something in the way of handwork in underwear or fine insulated handkerchiefs, or a vest and collar and cuff set for her business suits or dresses.

If you are clever at arts and crafts you could please either of the relatives with some useful bit of art as a polychrome picture frame artistically framing a favorite picture, or something in the need work, a magazine holder or sewing box. Or you might be able to make a personal book for the aunt, with pictures of the various members of your family and perhaps interesting family history and anecdotes related.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION. Mrs. Shaw Calls Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a God-Send to Sick Women

Cambridge, Me.—"I suffered terribly with pains and soreness in my sides. Each month I had to go to bed, and the doctor told me I simply had to go under an operation before I could get help. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and I told my husband one day to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I took the third dose I felt better. I took four times a day for two years, getting better all the time, and now for four years I don't have any pains. After taking the medicine for two years I had another child—a lovely baby girl now four years old—the life of my home. I do praise this medicine. It is a Godsend to women who suffer with female troubles and especially for pains at the periods. I surely was very bad once, and I know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation." Mrs. JOSIE M. SHAW, Route No. 1, Cambridge, Maine.

A country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound reports 98 out of every 100 were benefited by it.
